DETAILED ACTION

Drawings

1. The drawings are objected to under 37 CFR 1.83(a). The drawings must show every feature of the invention specified in the claims. Therefore, the different axial and radial dimensions of the rotor segments (claim 3) and the power transferring device (claim 4) must be shown or the feature canceled from the claim 3. No new matter should be entered.

A proposed drawing correction or corrected drawings are required in reply to the Office action to avoid abandonment of the application. The objection to the drawings will not be held in abeyance.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

2. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

3. Claims 1, 5, 6, 7, 8, and 9 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated Fukao et al. (Fukao)(US 5,703,423). Fukao teaches an axially spaced stators with AC windings to both levitate and rotate the integrated, permanent magnet rotor 12. Fukao teaches a coil (segment) for torque 14 and a coil (segment) 20 for bearing action. The feedback controls reduce vibration with six degrees of freedom.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

4. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

5. This application currently names joint inventors. In considering patentability of the claims under 35 U.S.C. 103(a), the examiner presumes that the subject matter of the various claims was commonly owned at the time any inventions covered therein were made absent any evidence to the contrary. Applicant is advised of the obligation under 37 CFR 1.56 to point out the inventor and invention dates of each claim that was not commonly owned at the time a later invention was made in order for the examiner to consider the applicability of 35 U.S.C. 103(c) and potential 35 U.S.C. 102(e), (f) or (g) prior art under 35 U.S.C. 103(a).

6. Claims 2 and 4 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Fukao et al. (Fukao)(US 5,703,423) and Osama et al. (Osama)(US 6166469). Fukao teaches every aspect of the invention except the rotor having two axially spaced segments that are offset between the stator and the rotor and the power transfer device connected to the rotor. Osama teaches the rotor being formed in two parts and being axially offset from the stator (See figure 6), to provide bidirection offsetting bearing forces and a power output shaft 422 connected to the rotor. It would have been obvious to a person of ordinary skill in the art at the time of the invention to construct the bearingless motor of Fukao with the offset rotors to provide bidirection to provide compact and stable bearingless motors.

7. Claim 3 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Fukao et al. (Fukao)(US 5,703,423) and Yokoi (JP 03118754). Fukao teaches every aspect of the invention except the rotor having different dimension on the axial segments. Yokio teaches the different axial segments provide axial magnetic bearings to allow high-speed rotation. It would have been obvious to a person of ordinary skill in the art at the time of the invention to construct the bearingless motor of Fukao with the different rotor dimensions on axial segments to provide magnetic support for a high speed rotor.
